

Human Resources Legal Fact Sheet: Alaska

Updated November 2021

Disclaimer: This factsheet summarizes state laws and regulations on a variety of human resource issues for dairy farms, including wages, paystubs, deductions, child labor, and more. It is not intended to provide legal advice. The factsheet is simply an overview of select issues with a high-level explanation of key requirements for each one, with links to more information and resources throughout the document. This factsheet does not include all legal requirements for dairies. It was created in November 2021, and while it will be periodically updated, it may not reflect the current state of the law on every topic covered. Dairies should also review the federal factsheet because employers—depending on size—may be required to comply with some or all of the applicable federal laws and regulations as well. By using this factsheet you understand that there is no attorney-client relationship between you and the attorneys who were involved in developing the factsheet. This factsheet should not be used as a substitute for competent legal advice from a licensed attorney.

Are there Alaska state laws for dairy farms about the following?

Hiring

Topic	Answer	Summary
Notice of Payday / Pay Rate <sup>1</sup>	YES	Wages must be paid for each pay period. An employer shall notify an employee in writing at the time of hiring of the day and place of payment, and the rate of pay, and of any change with respect to these items on the payday before the time of change. An employer may give this notice by posting a statement of the facts, and keeping it posted conspicuously at or near the place of work where the statement can be seen by each employee as the employee comes or goes to the place of work. More details online.
Reporting <sup>2</sup>	YES	All Alaskan employers must report, within 20 days, every new hire and rehire to Child Support Services Division.

Wages

Topic	Answer	Summary
Payday <sup>3</sup>	YES	An employee and employer may agree in an annual initial contract of employment to monthly pay periods when the employer must pay all employees for all labor performed or services rendered. Otherwise, the employer must establish monthly or semi-monthly pay periods, at the election of the employee.
Final Pay <sup>4</sup>	YES	Following a termination by the employer, all final pay is due within three working days following the termination. If the employee resigns, all final pay is due at the next regular pay day that is at least three days after the employer received notice of the employee's resignation.
Overtime <sup>5</sup>	NO	Employees engaged in agriculture are exempt from Alaska's overtime provisions.
Minimum Wage <sup>6</sup>	NO	Alaska's minimum wage requirements do not apply to employees employers in agriculture.
Hours Worked	NO	Alaska does not have any relevant laws on hours worked. Alaska follows the federal Fair Labor Standards Act for determining compensable time.
Reporting Time Pay	NO	Alaska does not have any relevant laws on reporting time pay. Alaska follows the federal Fair Labor Standards Act.
Pay Stub <sup>7</sup>	YES	A statement of earnings and deductions must include the employee's: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Rate of pay.</li> <li>• Gross wages.</li> <li>• Net wages.</li> <li>• Pay period beginning and ending dates.</li> <li>• Federal income tax deductions.</li> </ul>

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• FICA deductions.</li> <li>• Alaska Employment Security Act contributions.</li> <li>• Board and lodging costs.</li> <li>• Advances.</li> <li>• Actual straight-time and overtime hours worked in the pay period.</li> <li>• Other authorized deductions.</li> </ul>
Taxes and Withholding <sup>8</sup>	YES / NO	The State of Alaska currently does not have an individual income tax, therefore no employee withholding for state income tax is required. Service performed by an individual in agricultural labor (except when that service is performed for a person who, during any calendar quarter in either the current or the preceding calendar year, paid remuneration in cash of $20,000 or more to individuals employed in agricultural labor; or when that service is performed for a person who employed 10 or more individuals in agricultural labor for some portion of the day in each of at least 20 different weeks) is exempt from unemployment insurance requirements. More details.
Deductions and Allowances <sup>9</sup>	YES	Generally, deductions of any sort require a written agreement that is voluntarily executed and may not reduce pay below the statutory minimum wage or adversely affect overtime. Employers may deduct, subject to a written agreement: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Transportation and moving expenses so long as the employee's pay is not reduced below the minimum wage; and overtime compensation is not affected.</li> <li>• Sums paid for the benefit of an employee to a creditor, done, or other third-party.</li> <li>• Reasonable board and lodging expenses where provided by the employer and voluntarily used by the employee.</li> <li>• A security deposit to ensure uniforms or equipment are returned in good order so long as the deduction: is by written agreement; does not exceed the cost of the item; and does not reduce pay below the statutory minimum wage or adversely affect overtime.</li> </ul> Employers in Alaska may not deduct: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Customer checks returned for insufficient funds.</li> <li>• Non-payment for goods or services as a result of theft or credit default.</li> <li>• Cash register shortages unless the employee admits to have taken the shortage in writing.</li> <li>• Lost, missing, or stolen property unless the employee admits responsibility in writing.</li> <li>• Damage or breakage costs unless due to the employee's willful misconduct and the employee acknowledges responsibility in writing.</li> </ul> Alaska generally follows the federal standards for determining deductions from an exempt employee's salary.
Bonuses <sup>10</sup>	NO	Alaska has no relevant laws on bonuses. Employees are not entitled to holiday bonus pay. It depends on whether the employer has promised to pay holiday pay. If the employer promises to pay time-and-a-half for work on a holiday, the employee would receive 1½ times his regular rate of pay for the holiday hours worked. If the employer does not offer a bonus for holiday pay, the employee would be paid only straight-time for holiday hours worked. If the employer promises to pay holiday pay but has not established a special rate, and the employee works on the holiday, the employee could receive straight-time for eight hours of work and straight time for eight hours of holiday pay.

Recordkeeping

Topic	Answer	Summary
Payroll <sup>11</sup>	YES	Employers are not required to maintain payroll records for employees engaged in agriculture. Generally, however, Alaska employers are required to keep accurate records for all employees they hire. The Alaska Wage and Hour Act (AWHA) requires no particular form for the records, but does require that the records include certain identifying information about the employee and data about the hours worked and the wages earned. The law requires this information to be accurate. The following basic records must be maintained by the employer for a period of at least three years: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Employee's full name and Social Security number.</li> <li>• Employee's address, including zip code.</li> <li>• Employee's occupation.</li> <li>• Employee's birth date, if younger than 19.</li> <li>• Employee's sex.</li> <li>• Beginning and ending dates of the pay period.</li> <li>• Total hours employee worked each day.</li> <li>• Total hours employee worked each workweek.</li> <li>• Basis on which employee's wages are paid (for example "$9 per hour," "$440 a week," or "piecework").</li> <li>• Employee's regular rate of pay.</li> <li>• Total straight-time and overtime hours employee actually worked in the pay period.</li> <li>• Employee's total daily or weekly straight-time earnings.</li> <li>• Employee's total overtime earnings for the workweek.</li> <li>• All additions to or deductions from the employee's wages, to include: federal income tax deductions; Federal Insurance Contribution Act deductions; Alaska Employment Security Act deductions; board and lodging costs (if applicable); advances on pay; and all other authorized deductions.</li> <li>• Total gross and net wages paid each pay period.</li> <li>• Date of payment for each pay period.</li> </ul> Employers may use any timekeeping method they choose. For example, they may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Use a time clock.</li> </ul>

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Have a timekeeper keep track of employee's work hours. Tell their workers to write their own times on the records.</li> </ul>
Personnel File – Employee Access <sup>12</sup>	YES	Employees (and former employees) have a right to access their personnel files. An employer shall permit an employee or former employee to inspect and make copies of the employee’s personnel file and other personnel information maintained by the employer concerning the employee under reasonable rules during regular business hours. The employer may require an employee or former employee who requests copies of material under this subsection to pay the reasonable cost of duplication.
Unemployment Insurance <sup>13</sup>	YES	Employers must establish, maintain, and preserve employment records for at least five years. For each individual performing covered employment, the records must contain the individual’s: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>beginning and ending dates for each pay period;</li> <li>total wages paid in each pay period;</li> <li>name and social security number;</li> <li>wage rate, method of wage computation, hours of work, and wages paid in each pay period, showing separately <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>money wages;</li> <li>cash value of remuneration in a medium other than cash; and</li> <li>special payments of any kind, including bonuses, gifts, and prizes;</li> </ol> </li> <li>dates of hire and return to work after layoff; and</li> <li>date and cause of each suspension or termination of work.</li> </ol>
Workers’ Compensation <sup>14</sup>	YES	An employer shall keep a record with respect to an injury to an employee. The record must contain the information of disease, other disability, or death with respect to an injury that the division requires, and must be available to inspection by the division or by a state authority at the times and under the conditions that the department prescribes by regulation. Within 10 days from the date the employer has knowledge of an injury or death or from the date the employer has knowledge of a disease or infection, alleged by the employee or on behalf of the employee to have arisen out of and in the course of the employment, the employer shall file with the division a report setting out: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>the name, address, and business of the employer;</li> <li>the name, address, and occupation of the employee;</li> <li>the cause and nature of the alleged injury or death;</li> <li>the year, month, day, and hour when and the particular locality where the alleged injury or death occurred; and</li> </ol> the other information that the division may require.
OSHA	YES	Alaska is an OSHA-approved State Plan State. Alaska has incorporated the federal standard for OSHA recordkeeping and reporting.
Federal	YES	Alaska follows a number of federal rules for recordkeeping.

Working Conditions

Topic	Answer	Summary

Human Resources Legal Fact Sheet: Alaska

Bathrooms <sup>15</sup>	YES	Alaska has incorporated the federal Pasteurized Milk Ordinance (PMO). The PMO rules specify that dairy farms have one or more toilets that are conveniently located, properly constructed, properly operated, and maintained in a sanitary manner.
Working Hours	NO	Alaska does not specify max hour or day requirements for adults.
Rest and Meal Breaks <sup>16</sup>	YES / NO	Employers are not required to provide breaks for employees over 18. Employers that choose to provide rest and meal breaks must follow the applicable federal rules. Refer to federal fact sheet. See Child Labor below for rules for minors.
Labor Relations	NO	There is no provision in state law recognizing farm worker rights to organize. Alaska does not have right-to-work laws covering private employers.
Whistleblower Protection	YES / NO	Alaska law does not provide a general protection for private sector employees in whistleblower cases. However, specific employee disclosures (for example, OSHA-related violations) are protected from retaliation.
Paid Sick and Vacation Leave <sup>17</sup>	NO	Alaska does not have paid sick or vacation leave laws. Employers only have to give such benefits if the employer has promised that the employee will receive these payments. Thus, an employer only has to pay these benefits if he/she has a policy to pay such benefits, or has made a promise or has a contract with the employee to pay these benefits.
Breaks for Nursing Mothers	NO	Alaska follows federal law regarding breaks for nursing mothers (FLSA). Refer to the federal fact sheet.
Pregnancy Accommodations and Leave <sup>18</sup>	YES / NO	Alaska has no state law requiring employers to provide pregnancy leave. However, Alaska's anti-discrimination statute prohibits discrimination based on pregnancy when the reasonable demands of the position do not require distinction on that basis. Leave may be considered a reasonable accommodation under that statute in the event of pregnancy.
Family and Medical Leave	NO	Alaska has no state equivalent of the Family and Medical Leave Act. Refer to federal fact sheet for further information.
Military and other Service Leave <sup>19</sup>	YES	All Alaska employers are covered by this law. Employees eligible for this leave are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Members of the organized militia, which includes: the Alaska National Guard; the Alaska Naval Militia; and the Alaska State Defense Force.</li> <li>• Effective September 21, 2018, Alaska residents who are members of the National Guard of another state.</li> </ul> An employer must grant: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• An employee who is a member of the organized militia a leave of absence to perform active state service.</li> <li>• Effective September 21, 2018, an employee who is an Alaska resident and a member of the National Guard of another state to perform active National Guard service under a law of that state.</li> </ul> Employees released from active state militia services are entitled to return to their former positions, or comparable positions, at the same pay, seniority, and benefit level they would have had if they not been on active service leave.

Human Resources Legal Fact Sheet: Alaska

		Generally, employees must report to work at the beginning of the work day following the last calendar day necessary to travel from the site of active state service to their work site. If an employee fails to return to work at that time, the employer may discipline the employee consistent with its policy on unexcused work absences.
Crime Victim and Witness Leave <sup>20</sup>	YES / NO	Alaska does not have a crime victim and witness leave law.  However, an employer may not penalize or threaten to penalize a victim of an offense because the victim: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) is subpoenaed or requested by the prosecuting attorney to attend a court proceeding for the purpose of giving testimony; or</li> <li>(2) reports the offense to a law enforcement agency or participates in the investigation of the offense by a law enforcement agency.</li> </ul>
Jury Duty Leave <sup>21</sup>	YES	All Alaska employers are covered by this law and all employees are eligible for jury duty leave . An employer must offer leave, which may be unpaid, to employees for the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Respond to a jury summons.</li> <li>• Serve as a juror.</li> <li>• Attend court for prospective jury service.</li> </ul> If an employee receives or responds to a jury summons, serves as a juror, or attends jury service, an employer may not: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Deprive the employee of employment.</li> <li>• Threaten, coerce, or penalize the employee.</li> </ul>
Voting Leave <sup>22</sup>	YES	All Alaska employers are covered by this law. All employees qualified to vote are eligible for this leave. An employee may take off enough working time to allow them to vote in a state election, unless the employee has sufficient time outside of working hours to vote. The employee has sufficient time outside working hours if he has two consecutive hours to vote either between: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The opening of the polls and the beginning of the employee's regular working shift.</li> <li>• The end of the employee's regular working shift and the closing of the polls.</li> </ul> Employees without sufficient non-working hours to vote may take time off to vote in a state-wide election without loss of pay.
School Activity Leave	NO	Alaska does not have a school activity leave law.

Human Rights

Topic	Answer	Summary
Employment Discrimination <sup>23</sup>	YES	The Alaska Human Rights Act (AHRA) prohibits employment and other discrimination based on the following protected classes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Race.</li> </ul>

Health and Safety

Topic	Answer	Summary
Workers Compensation <sup>27</sup>	YES	Employers with one or more workers must have workers' compensation insurance . An employer must buy the insurance from a licensed insurance company or be self-insured.
OSHA	YES	Alaska has an OSHA-approved State Plan . For the most part, Alaska adopts many of the federal OSHA regulations. The Alaska State Plan covers all private sector places of employment in the state, with some exceptions. It does not cover the enforcement of the field sanitation standard, 29 CFR 1928.110, and the enforcement of the temporary labor camps standard, 29 CFR 1910.142, with respect to any agricultural establishment where workers are engaged in "agricultural employment" within the meaning of the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act, 29 USC 1802(3) – regardless of the number of workers – including workers engaged in hand packing of produce into containers (whether done on the ground, on a moving machine, or in a temporary packing shed), except Alaska retains enforcement responsibility over agricultural temporary labor camps for workers engaged in egg, poultry, or red meat production, or the post-harvest processing of agricultural or horticultural commodities. The Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor covers the agricultural issues not covered by the Alaska State Plan.
Housing	NO	Alaska does not explicitly address standards for farm-provided permanent agricultural housing, though general landlord/tenant or public health laws may apply. Employers should follow best practices when providing housing – which includes, at minimum, a written housing agreement and properly maintaining the facilities. The FARM HR Manual has guidance around best practices for agricultural worker housing.
