

Human Resources Legal Fact Sheet: New Mexico

Updated March 2022

Disclaimer: This factsheet summarizes state laws and regulations on a variety of human resource issues for dairy farms, including wages, paystubs, deductions, child labor, and more. It is not intended to provide legal advice. The factsheet is simply an overview of select issues with a high-level explanation of key requirements for each one, with links to more information and resources throughout the document. This factsheet does not include all legal requirements for dairies. It was created in March 2022, and while it will be periodically updated, it may not reflect the current state of the law on every topic covered. Dairies should also review the federal factsheet because employers—depending on size—may be required to comply with some or all of the applicable federal laws and regulations as well. Additionally, employers should review the provisions of their collective bargaining agreement(s). By using this factsheet you understand that there is no attorney-client relationship between you and the attorneys who were involved in developing the factsheet. This factsheet should not be used as a substitute for competent legal advice from a licensed attorney.

Are there New Mexico state laws for dairy farms about the following?

Hiring

Topic	Answer	Summary
Notice of Payday / Pay Rate	NO	State law does not require a notice of payday / pay rate for new hires. However, the Department of Workforce Solutions guidance says that you must notify workers of any wage reductions before they work the hours.
Reporting ¹	YES	New hires and rehires must be reported to the New Mexico New Hires Directory within 20 days.

Wages

Topic	Answer	Summary
Payday ²	NO	New Mexico payday law excludes employers of agricultural labor.
Final Pay ³	NO	New Mexico final pay law excludes employers of agricultural labor. It is recommended that employers pay former employees on the next regular payday following the employee's employment separation.
Overtime ⁴	NO	Agricultural workers are exempt from state overtime laws.
Minimum Wage ⁵	YES / NO	$11.50 per hour, but many dairy workers are exempt. Typical exemptions: Employees principally working in milk production; parent, spouse, child or other member of employer's immediate family; small farm (no more than 500 man-days of agricultural labor in the calendar year. Employer may apply for an exemption for seasonal workers. Minimum wage may apply: Other workers NOT principally in milk production. For example, a seasonal worker hired only to bale hay, etc.
Hours Worked	NO	New Mexico law does not explicitly address the definition of 'hours worked' for the purposes of calculating compensable time. Employers should follow federal laws summarized in the federal factsheet.
Reporting Time Pay	NO	New Mexico law does not require reporting time pay, i.e. an employee is only required to be paid for actual hours worked.
Pay Stub ⁶	NO	New Mexico pay stub law excludes employers of agricultural labor.
Taxes and Withholding ⁷	YES	Employers are required to withhold New Mexico state income tax if they are also required to withhold federal income taxes. You must also give your employees a statement of taxes withheld, like a federal Form W-2, 1099-MISC or 1099-R.

Human Resources Legal Fact Sheet: New Mexico

		Employers must pay New Mexico Unemployment Insurance taxes if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> You paid cash wages to farm workers of $20,000 or more in a quarter in the current or prior calendar year; OR, You employed ten or more farm workers for some part of a day in 20 or more weeks in the current or prior calendar year. Certain family employment is excluded from coverage requirements (a parent employed by their son/daughter, a person employed by their spouse, or a child under 18 employed by a parent). Unemployment taxes are paid by the employer; they are not taken out of employee pay. You can credit the amount you pay to New Mexico in calculating how much you owe for federal unemployment taxes. More details.
Deductions ⁸	YES / NO	New Mexico law addresses the issue of deductions as follows: employers can only deduct lawful deductions and payroll deductions authorized by the employer and employee. Because employees in milk production are likely exempt from the relevant wage law, but still fall under the federal FLSA, employers are encouraged to look at the federal factsheet for additional guidance on deductions. If you provide food, supplies, housing, or utilities, you can deduct the reasonable value of these benefits from employee wages. Usually, reasonable value means the cost to provide the benefits, not a fair market value.
Bonuses	YES / NO	Bonuses are not explicitly addressed in New Mexico wage laws. Generally, nondiscretionary bonuses are considered a type of wage, protected under wage payment laws. On the other hand, discretionary bonuses are usually not considered wages. A nondiscretionary bonus is one where the amount and criteria for getting the bonus are announced in advance. For example, performance goals (like meeting somatic cell count goals) that workers know about in advance. Discretionary bonuses are ones that are not announced in advance, not expected by the employee, and not an incentive for the employee. For example, when the farm reaches a certain financial goal and decides to give all employees a bonus. Employers should follow any written policy they have about paying bonuses as a best practice.

Recordkeeping

Topic	Answer	Summary

Any non-cash remuneration given for services and the cash value of the remuneration. The records must be kept for four (4) years in addition to the current calendar year (i.e. remainder of calendar year plus four years). The employment and payroll records shall be readily accessible to authorized representatives of the Department of Workforce Solution's Tax Section. If these records are maintained out-of-state, the employer is responsible for expenses and cost incurred to travel out of New Mexico to inspect and/or audit these records.
Personnel File - Access	NO	New Mexico law does not address personnel file access for private employers.
Unemployment Insurance ¹⁰	YES	Employers covered by Unemployment Insurance Law must file quarterly wage reports. See 'Payroll' above for additional recordkeeping requirements.
Workers' Compensation	YES	Quarterly wage reports are required (see 'Unemployment Insurance'). Otherwise, New Mexico law does not specify workers' compensation recordkeeping requirements; however there are OSHA recordkeeping requirements for injuries and illnesses, and employers should also ensure they retain records. See federal fact sheet for additional details.
OSHA ¹¹	YES	New Mexico has incorporated federal OSHA recordkeeping and reporting requirements. See federal factsheet for details.
Federal	YES	There are numerous federal rules about recordkeeping. Employers should review the federal factsheet.

Working Conditions

Topic	Answer	Summary
Bathrooms ¹²	YES	Dairies in New Mexico must comply with the Pasteurized Milk Ordinance. The PMO specifies that dairy farms have one or more toilets that are conveniently located, properly constructed, properly operated, and maintained in a sanitary manner. The New Mexico OSHA regulations also include basic requirements for toilet facilities.
Working Hours ¹³	YES / NO	No max hour or day requirements for adults working as farm hands. Other employees are limited to 16 hours in any 24 hour period. If there is a change to the beginning of the workday, you must notify workers at least the day before the change and during working hours. See Child Labor (below) for maximum hours for minors.

Rest and Meal Breaks	NO	There is no state statute that requires an employer to provide meal or rest breaks. Employers that choose to provide rest and meal breaks must follow the applicable federal rules. Refer to federal fact sheet.
Labor Relations ¹⁴	NO	No provision in state law recognizing farm worker rights to organize.
Whistleblower Protection ¹⁵	YES / NO	New Mexico law does not provide a general protection for private sector employees in whistleblower cases. However, topic-specific laws (like wage discrimination, wage laws, etc.) may protect employees that report unlawful practices. And specific employee disclosures (for example, OSHA-related violations) are protected from retaliation.
Paid Vacation or Sick Leave	NO	New Mexico state law does not require paid sick or vacation leave. However, employers should follow any written policy they have about such fringe benefits.
Breaks for Nursing Mothers ¹⁶	YES	Employers must provide a clean, private place near the workspace for employees who are breastfeeding to pump. The place cannot be a bathroom. Also requires that the employee be given flexible break times to express milk, but does not require that she be paid for this time.
Pregnancy Accommodations ¹⁷	YES / NO	New Mexico law does not explicitly require pregnancy accommodations or leave for private sector employees. However, per state anti-discrimination law, employers must treat employees affected by pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions the same as other employees who are temporarily disabled for other reasons. Applies to employers with four or more employees.
Family, Parental, and Pregnancy Leave ¹⁸	YES / NO	New Mexico law requires private employers who provide sick leave to employees for their own injury or illness or to receive health care to allow employees to also use their accrued sick leave to care for certain family members in accordance with the same terms and procedures that apply for any other use of sick leave. New Mexico has not enacted a family or medical leave law that requires employers to provide leave to employees in the private sector. Federal law requiring unpaid leave may apply depending on the size of the employer. Employers should refer to the federal factsheet.
Jury Duty Leave ¹⁹	YES	Employers must excuse employees from work to serve on a jury, paid or unpaid. An employer cannot require or request an employee to use annual, vacation, or sick leave for time spent on jury duty.
Crime Victim and Witness Leave ²⁰	YES	New Mexico has a state law relating to domestic violence leave. Employees must be given up to 14 days of leave in a calendar year, paid or unpaid, to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Obtain an order of protection or other judicial relief. • Meet with law enforcement officials. • Consult with attorneys or victim advocates. • Attend court proceedings related to the domestic abuse of the employee or the employee's family member. This leave may be taken intermittently. An employer may require that the employee verify the need for leave by timely providing one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A police report indicating the employee or the employee's family member was a domestic abuse victim.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A copy of an order of protection or other court evidence connected with an incident of domestic abuse. • A written statement from either: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ the employee's attorney; ○ a district attorney's victim advocate; or ○ a prosecuting attorney. Employers must allow employees to use accrued sick or other available paid time off, compensatory time, or unpaid leave consistent with an employer's leave policies, and maintain confidentiality.
Military Leave ²²	YES	Employers are prohibited from discharging or otherwise discriminating in employment against any person because of membership in the National Guard. Employers are further prohibited from preventing employees who are National Guard members from performing any military service they may be called to perform. Permanent employees who leave a job to enter the U.S. armed forces, National Guard, or reserves are entitled to a leave of absence for the period of their military service. Employers must reinstate individuals returning from such service to their former position or a position of like seniority, status, and pay, provided that they: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are either honorably discharged, released from activity duty to complete remaining service in reserve, or entitled to a certificate of service; or terminate service without dishonor • Apply within 90 days of their release from training and service or within 2 years of service-related hospitalization • Have not had a leave of absence for uniformed service of greater than five years • Are still qualified to perform their previous job Private employers must reinstate these individuals unless circumstances make their reinstatement impossible or unreasonable. During their service, employees are considered on a leave of absence, and are entitled to participate in insurance or other benefits pursuant to the employer's policy on leaves of absence. Federal rules also apply; employers should refer to the federal factsheet.
Voting Leave ²¹	YES	Employees must be given up to 2 hours of paid leave to vote on election day or in an election for an Indian nation, tribe, or pueblo. An employer may specify the hours between the opening and closing of the polls when the employee may take voting leave. This leave does not apply to an employee whose work day begins more than two hours after the opening of the polls, or ends more than three hours prior to the time of closing the polls.
School Activity Leave ²⁷	NO	New Mexico law does not address leave for private sector employees to attend a child's school activity.

Human Rights

Topic	Answer	Summary

Human Resources Legal Fact Sheet: New Mexico

Employment Discrimination²³	YES	New Mexico law prohibits employment discrimination based on race and traits historically associated with race (including hair texture and length of hair; cultural or religious headdresses; protective hairstyles including braids, locs, twists, tight coils or curls, cornrows, bantu knots, afros, weaves, wigs, or head wraps), age, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, sex, physical or mental handicap or serious medical condition, pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical condition and sexual orientation gender identity. Applies to employers with four (4) or more employees except sexual orientation or gender identity which applies to employers with 15 or more employees. If you have fifty (50) or more employees, the law also protects against discrimination based on spousal affiliation. Employment discrimination means bias in hiring (including during interviews), promotion, job assignments, firing, pay, and other terms of employment. Employers cannot pay men and women different wages for comparable work on jobs that have virtually the same requirements in terms of skills, effort, and responsibility. Wage differences based on seniority, merit, quantity or quality of production or other factors other than sex are permitted. It is illegal to retaliate against employees for filing or otherwise aiding with a complaint. A private employer may not inquire into an applicant’s history of arrest or conviction on an employment application. But, the employer may consider an applicant’s conviction(s) after review of the applicant’s application and upon discussion of employment with the applicant.
Harassment / Sexual Harassment²⁴	YES	Sexual harassment is included in the definition of employment discrimination based on sex (above). It becomes illegal when (1) employees have no choice but to tolerate the harassment if they want to keep their job; (2) it is so severe that a regular person would see it as intimidating, hostile, or abusive. Sexual harassment includes unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and verbal or physical conduct or suggestions of a sexual nature when: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Engaging in such conduct is made an implicit or explicit term or condition of employment. Example: A newly hired milker is told that sexual jokes, touching and nude posters are just part of farm life and she should try to ignore it. • Acceptance or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for an employment decision affecting an employee. Example: A manager tells a worker applying for a promotion that the job would be his if he just “treated her right.” • The conduct interferes with an employee's work or creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment. Example: One worker experiences

Workers Compensation²⁷	YES	Employers with three (3) or more employees are required to have worker’s compensation coverage. Seasonal and part-time employees count for determining coverage, as do any family/neighbors that are paid wages. More details. Employees must submit a Notice of Accident (NOA) form following an accident or occupational disease sustained at work, which should be posted along with or next to the Workers Compensation Act poster in the workplace. Once an employer receives a NOA form from an employee, agent of an employee, or direct supervisor, the employer has to notify the insurance carrier within 72 hours. Employers then work with their insurance carrier to submit the Employer’s First Report of Injury or Illness (FROI) form to the state Workers’ Compensation Administration within ten (10) days for any injury/illness resulting in more than 7 days of missed work (whether consecutive or not). You cannot retaliate against employees for seeking worker’s compensation benefits. More details.
OSHA²⁸	YES	New Mexico has adopted all OSHA standards, so dairy farms in the state need to comply with the applicable federal standards (see the federal portion of the factsheet). Similar to federal OSHA, New Mexico OSHA has a general duty clause that requires employers to provide employees a workplace free from recognized hazards that can cause death or serious physical harm. In addition, New Mexico OSHA has adopted state-specific standards that dairy farms need to follow. All farms: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Emergency medical care – If the nearest hospital or clinic is far away, someone needs to be trained in first aid. And there needs to be first aid supplies readily available. If people may be exposed to corrosive materials, you need quickly accessible eye and body-wash stations. Retaliation – Cannot fire or discriminate against employees that file a complaint or testify in any situation relating to the Occupational Health and Safety Act.
Housing	YES / NO	New Mexico law does not explicitly address standards for permanent agricultural housing, though general landlord/tenant or public health laws may apply. Employers should follow best practices when providing housing – which includes, at minimum, a written housing agreement and properly maintaining the facilities. The FARM HR Manual has guidance around best practices for agricultural worker housing.
